

Celebrating underrepresented and minority scientists in biology and conservation.

14-16 October 2021

biodiverseproject.org

biodiversefestival@gmail.com

Code of Conduct

We (the Bio-Diverse Project team) want everyone attending to feel they can contribute to and enjoy the festival.

We expect all participants to be respectful of others, and to conduct themselves in a professional manner.

We expect any communication to be considerate and adequate for the appropriate professional audiences of the festival.

Please do not comment on Facebook, YouTube, Twitter, Discord or other social platforms about someone's personal circumstances.

Please be kind to others and do not insult or offend anyone else. We want this to be a safe environment for all attendees to express themselves without judgement.

Harassment includes, but is not limited to: any offensive comment or tweet, offensive direct messaging, and attempting to disrupt online events in comments.

Negative or discriminatory comments about any identity, including sexual orientation, gender identity, race, and disabilities will not be tolerated.

Any contributions in discussions or questions should be made in a positive, professional, and respectful manner.

Consequences

Any breaching of the Code of Conduct will result in being blocked from all online events, and may be barred from any future Bio-Diverse Festival events.

Reporting

Please report any breaches of the Code of Conduct to our email biodiversefestival@gmail.com, our moderators, or the following google form <https://forms.gle/SsHwkyHoEMcCf6yu7>